

Peter Kacena ALM '15

Peter currently works for the Federal Reserve Bank of Chicago in the Financial Planning & Analytics Central Business Office. Peter received his ALM in 2015 in the field of finance and joined the bank shortly after his graduation. Prior to his current position, Peter worked for Motorola and Nokia as a principal program manager, and engineering manager.

“I strongly believe in the transforming power of education and the live changing opportunities the Harvard Extension School provides to students and alumni. If I were to be elected to serve as a Treasurer of the HEAA, I would be able to use my experience and education to work with fellow board members to support the HEAA's mission, goals, and programs in order to continue providing valuable benefits to the Harvard Extension School alumni; specifically, focusing on leveraging HEAA and the University resources to promote networking, career opportunities, and connections between Harvard Extension School alumni and the University.”

Peter and his wife have two children, and they live in the Greater Chicago area.
